DIVERSE INCUBATORS & ACCELERATORS

Hong Kong's vibrant startup ecosystem is underpinned by a number of private and publicly-funded incubators and accelerators providing general and specific programmes for startups e.g. fintech, Internet of Things, artificial intelligence and foodtech etc. These accelerator programmes provide support, mentorship, and in some cases funding to help startup founders succeed in their ventures.

VIBRANT PRIVATE FUNDING LANDSCAPE

While incubators and accelerators may provide financial support for early stage startups for prototyping and proof of concept development, venture capital and private equity firms provide funding opportunities to help growing startups scale their business to the next stage.

Hong Kong is the world's No. 1 for IPO funds raised for the 7th time in the past 11 years. Pre-revenue biotech companies and high-tech companies with weighted voting rights are now allowed to raise funds in Hong Kong, thanks to the reforms in the listing rules of the HKEX. The new listing regime also gives impetus to secondary listings of mainland Chinese technology companies such as Alibaba, JD.com and NetEase. With wider funding options available for innovative ventures, Hong Kong is well-positioned to become a capital market hub for new economy companies.
